The Write Place At the Write Time

| Home                      | Come inand be captivated                                                                                                                                                                       |
|---------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| About Us                  | Come mand be captivated                                                                                                                                                                        |
| Interviews                | Writers' Contest!                                                                                                                                                                              |
| Fiction                   | By Denise Bouchard                                                                                                                                                                             |
| Poetry                    | The own winter is give we desided it would                                                                                                                                                     |
| "Our Stories" non-fiction | In our winter issue, we decided it wouldbe a fun challenge to run a contest                                                                                                                |
| Writers' Craft Box        | <pre>with a set of zany,disparate words/phrases that had to be</pre>                                                                                                                      |
| Writers' Contest!         | used in a cohesive story together with a 1,000 word limit.                                                                                                                                     |
| Exploration of Theme      |                                                                                                                                                                                                |
| Archives                  | The words/phrases were *Three wisemen,Leather pants, Gettysburg Address, Petit                                                                                                             |
| Submission Guidelines     | Fours, Orthodontist, Madagascar VanillaBeans, Easter and Dragon. By no means an                                                                                                            |
| Feedback & Questions      | easy feat. The 1st prize winner,                                                                                                                                                               |
|                           | Stephanie Haddad, who told her story witha compelling grace and wit using all thewords, won the opportunity to design thenext writer's contest which is featuredin this issue. |
|                           | Enjoy what she's prepared below as the next challenge!!!                                                                                                                                       |

```
Summer ISSUE WRITER'S CONTEST- DY

Stephanie Haddad

Premise- Your dog knows what you did and he's going to betray you, breaking the sacred code

of being man's "Best Friend"

Narrator- The dog

First Sentence- The first time Mabel ever

committed a felony...

Word Limit- 1,000

© 2009 The Write Place At the Write Time

This on-line magazine and all the content contained therein is copyrighted.
```

The Write Place At the Write Time

| Home                      | Comp in and be continued                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
|---------------------------|------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|--|
| About Us                  | Come inand be captivated                                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| Interviews                | Writers' Contest!                                                                                                                                                                              |  |
| Fiction                   | By Denise Bouchard                                                                                                                                                                             |  |
| Poetry                    | In our winter issue, we decided it would                                                                                                                                                       |  |
| "Our Stories" non-fiction | be a fun challenge to run a contest                                                                                                                                                            |  |
| Writers' Craft Box        | with a set of zany,disparate words/phrases that had to be                                                                                                                                  |  |
| Writers' Contest!         | used in a cohesive story together with a 1,000 word limit.                                                                                                                                     |  |
| Exploration of Theme      |                                                                                                                                                                                                |  |
| Archives                  | The words/phrases were *Three wisemen,Leather pants, Gettysburg Address, Petit                                                                                                             |  |
| Submission Guidelines     | Fours, Orthodontist, Madagascar VanillaBeans, Easter and Dragon. By no means an                                                                                                            |  |
| Feedback & Questions      | easy feat. The 1st prize winner,                                                                                                                                                               |  |
|                           | Stephanie Haddad, who told her story witha compelling grace and wit using all thewords, won the opportunity to design thenext writer's contest which is featuredin this issue. |  |
|                           | Enjoy what she's prepared below as the next challenge!!!                                                                                                                                       |  |

```
Summer ISSUE WRITER'S CONTEST- DY

Stephanie Haddad

Premise- Your dog knows what you did and he's going to betray you, breaking the sacred code

of being man's "Best Friend"

Narrator- The dog

First Sentence- The first time Mabel ever

committed a felony...

Word Limit- 1,000

© 2009 The Write Place At the Write Time

This on-line magazine and all the content contained therein is copyrighted.
```